Community Chest Enlisting Workers For 1952 Campaign

More Blood Donors Being Recruited

Red Cross blood recruitment teams are busy enlisting prospective donors for the visit of the blood mobile Oct. 8, 9 and 10.

In addition to the residential teams Lyman Appleton and Eugene A. Bernardin Jr., assisted by Mrs. Karl Killoran, Donald B. Look, Harold E. Heseltine and Alcide Legendre are canvassing the business district.

About 65 workers attended the tea at the November clubhouse Monday. Instructions and materials were given out by Mrs. Alden Cook, residential chairman, and Col. Frank L. Purdon, recruitment chairman, and films on the blood program were shown.

Albert L. Ratchelder, World War II veteran and recipient of blood for a service-incurred illness, spoke informally.

Red Cross headquarters will be open from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday so that workers can turn in their reports.

Andover residents were urged to rally behind the community chest which this week announced a 1952 goal for the communities of Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover of $201,824.

James R. Adriance, 6 School st., chairman of the Andover division of the drive, said that every effort will be made to bring out full Andover support.

Town children were busy throughout the week writing essays for the community chest essay contest, which features some subject on the 13 Red Feather agencies supported by the community chest.

The Andover Youth Center, which has afforded the children of this town with many pleasurable moments, is one of the 13 Red Feather agencies.

Chairman Adriance requested all persons, who would like to assist in the Andover division of the community chest drive to contact him and a place will be found for

Doherty To Attend Youth Conference

Joseph B. Doherty, former member of the Punchard faculty and now superintendent of schools at East Hampton, Conn., will go to Washington Oct. 8 for a three-day conference of the commission of life adjustment and education for youth.

Mr. Doherty is a member of the Connecticut commission appointed last spring for a three-year term. The Washington conference is to be held in the U.S. office of education. Representatives of state committees will meet to discuss current individual and social problems faced by American youth, and to prepare statements of the life adjustment education implications of these problems for secondary school curricular, teacher education, and follow-up conferences.

Mr. Doherty is also chairman of the discussion group which will follow the demonstration of high school reading at an all-state conference in Milford, Conn., Oct. 6, and also plans to attend the meeting of the N.E. Association of Superintendents at Swampscott Oct. 14, 15 and 16.

"No School" Signal Not For Punchard

Starting this fall and continuing throughout the winter no exceptions will be made because of weather for attendance at Punchard high school, according to an announcement recently made by Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman.

The "no school" signal will apply only to the elementary schools and the junior high school. High school pupils will be expected to attend school regardless of the weather.

If busses cannot run, Punchard students who can get to school only by school bus will be excused. However, school will be in session and all other students are expected to attend. In case of an extremely severe storm such as we occasionally have an announcement cancelling school in Punchard will be made over the radio.

This arrangement, the notice continues, will enable the school to show special consideration to the younger students who are more troubled by the weather and who are legally required to have only 165 days of school per year. It will also mean that the high school, which must have 180 days of school can probably finish up near the middle of June.

Observation Posts To Get Alert Test

To learn how quickly the ground observation posts can become effective in an emergency the Eastern Defense force at Stewart air force base, Newburg, N.Y., is planning to make a test alert in the eastern area at a date not to be announced.

No action is required at this time and the posts will not be manned. The object of the test is to find how quickly the local supervisors in the area can be reached. The supervisor in Andover is Albert Cole Jr., who has these duties in addition to being director of civil defense.

The new Andover board of trade was organized Monday night with representatives of 37 varied business interests signing up for membership.

In its formation the program offered by the organization committee, made up of the mercantile committee of the Andover Service club and several other townspeople, was closely followed.

Meeting in the hall of the Square and Compass club the gathering of about 45 men and women present voted on the various recommendations as follows:

1. Name, Andover board of trade;
2. Purpose, to promote the industrial, business and civic welfare of Andover;
3. Officers to consist of a president, two vice presidents, a secretary-treasurer, a board of directors to be made up of the four officers and three other members;
4. Membership open to any person or firm engaged in a business or profession in Andover or any resident of Andover who agrees to abide by the laws of the board and is approved by the executive committee;
5. Dues to be a minimum of $5 annually with a sliding scale to be determined by the membership at a later date based on the size of the business.

A nomination committee made up of Mason F. Arnold, chairman, Miss Miriam Putnam and John IL

Clipping Revives Memories For Old Ballardvale Native

When you spread a lot of printer's ink over white paper you never know just how far-reaching that message will be.

This thought must have occurred to Steven T. Byington, sage of Ballardvale, when he received a letter a few days ago from Wisconsin written by a former Vale resident. It was prompted by a newspaper clipping from a western paper which carried the magic word "Ballardvale" in the date line. The story described the work of Mr. Byington for the past 60 years and stirred up memories in the mind of Fred Butterworth, sprightly 84-year-old printer of Menasha, Wis., when he saw it.

"What interested me at once was the date line, Ballardvale, Mass.," writes Mr. Butterworth who goes on to say that the reason for this "is that on Jan. 17, 1867, I was born in that village in a house that stood on the river bank just before crossing the river to go to the store or hall on the other side of the river."

"I was just a kid when my folks left for their new home in Wisconsin. Father worked in the old wood mill as boss carder, my brother was a wool grader and my sister was a weaver in the brick mill. Religious services were held in the old file shop where I was christened. As I remember it, later I went to the Methodist church up the hill from the depot."

Mr. Butterworth must be regarded by the folks at Menasha in somewhat the same way as people of the Vale look upon Mr. Byington. The printer of Menasha, who has been 70 years on the job and is still going strong in his one-man shop, was the subject of a feature article in a Wisconsin paper recently which reviews his start at 25 cents a week as printer's devil on a Baraboo, Wis., weekly up to the present.

"He is still working hard at the printing trade," the story notes. "He doesn't plan to stop working now, although 70 years at the same job gives an excuse for taking it easy. He took time off from printing some forms for a bank to pose for his picture and unveil some of his homey philosophies. . . ."

"Fred puts a good excuse into any package of printing that he is late in getting out:

"A man is not old when his hair turns gray, nor is he old when his teeth decay; But he's well on his way to that final sleep when his mind makes appointments his body can't keep."

"This excuse usually brings a kind-hearted forgiveness for the delay in the order's delivery."

He likes to compose, the story continues, and set poetry in type. One poem he wrote about two years ago while in a hospital was read over a Green Bay radio station and resulted in over 1000 requests for copies.

One of his favorite poems is this: "The clock of Life is wound but once And no one has the power To tell just when its hands will stop At late or early hour."

Now is the only time you own, So live, love and toil with a will, Place not too much faith in tomorrow For the clock may then be still.

Extensive plans were made for the fair which is to be held on Saturday Dec. 1, in the community room. There will be a post office table. TOWNSMAN CLASSIFIED ADS BRING RESULTS

New Book Centers Interest On Town

Andover is the locale of one of the stories in Thomas M. Evans' book, "Gentlemen of Valor and Other Stories," just published by Exposition Press of New York. The other stories range from the intrigues in Elizabeth's court to the rise and fall of a present-day salesman.

"The Transients," third story in the volume tells of a group of English immigrants in New England just after the turn of the century and of their attempt to integrate themselves into the life of a strange country.

It brings its reader through a number of local scenes and business places, the rubber shop and woolen mills, while centering much of its attention on the life of a little family on River street, Ballardvale.

Mr. Evans, the author, was born in Bradford, England, joined the English navy and after his discharge came to the United States where he was a confidential agent for the British government. He became a salesman and later started his own business in Providence R.I., which he still heads.

SUIT SETTLED

An agreement for a $1,900 judgment was entered in the Superior Civil Court at Salem last week as William E. Perkins of Andover, a minor, settled a suit against the Standard Construction Co.

The boy was injured Sept. 13, 1948, when a plank struck him on Pine st., while the defendant was dismantling a scaffolding, a declaration stated. His father Frederick W. Perkins, Jr., sued for consequential damages but an agreement for "neither party" ended this count.

HARVEST SUPPER

Sportsmen Release 100 Pheasants Here

The game committee of the Andover Sportsman's club has recently released 100 pheasants in suitable areas in Andover. John Broderick, chairman, was assisted by Henry Bucher and James Ruxton. The club wished to bring attention to all sportsmen that the "30-day ban" is now in effect and will remain until the opening of the upland game season, 6 a.m. Oct. 20. Under this ban no firearms may be carried where game may be found. The purpose of this act is to prevent poaching by game hogs who pose as varmint shooters in order to be in the woods with guns. It is most effective in protecting recently released pheasants and to bring them through to opening day. Dog training in the bird fields is not affected by this law as long as firearms are not carried where game may be found.

Student Council Dance

The Punchard student council is sponsoring the first school dance of the year, to be held Friday evening, Sept. 28, in the Memorial gymnasium.

Bob Phinney, a former graduate of Punchard, will spin the platters. Homemade refreshments will be served.

Everyone is invited to attend, so let's have a good turnout at this initial dance, particularly among you Punchard alumni.

Girls' Band

The girls' band practices diligently each day under the direction of Mrs. Miriam McArdle and Mrs. Barbara Hill of the music department and Barbara Folley, drum major, preparing for the weekly appearance at the Punchard games.

The band is divided into a number of sections, each with a leader. These sectional leaders are as follows: Felice Pomerleau, color guard; Sandra Guertin, majorettes; Barbara Gould, trombones; Bettie MacMillan, trumpets; Marion Glenzie, clarinets and saxophones; Ruth Denholm, drums.

There are also a group of officers who, with the music department personell, manage the business affairs of the band. They are: Joyce Mowatt, president; Shirley Murray, vice president; Elinor Mondale, secretary, and Betsy Sparks, treasurer.

Mr. Howe advised the students to take advantage of the Punchard savings program by saving regularly for some personal project.

Mrs. Danforth then outlined the tow programs as they will be carried on each Tuesday. In the morning two bankers from each homeroom will collect money for the defense stamps. In the afternoon the regular banking will be held and the defense stamps will be issued.

The homeroom bankers are as follows:

Room 1, Clara Bassett, Eva DeAngelo; 2, Geraldine Gordon, Eleanor Doucette; 3, Pamela Kimball, Dorcas Johnston; 4, Joyce Williams Lucille O'Hara; 5, Felice Pomerleau, Joan Hewitt; 6, Jean Farrell, Christine Baduvasis; 7, Ann Smith, Carole Valentine; 8, Claire Van Coppenolle, Lucille Sherry; 9, Shirley Murray, Sally McCullom.

Youth Center

The Andover Youth Center is planning to have a large float in the community chest parade to be held in Lawrence Sunday, Oct. 14, and is looking forward to a large representation of Youth Center participants of all ages to be in the parade.

The new director, Paul Lanni, is in the process of arranging his staff for the coming season which will open about Nov. 1, and already has lined up about half of last year's group to assist in the new program.

Roller skating and basketball will be held this year in all divisions. There will be all types of clubs for various age groups and the popular ski club will be reorganized.

Things To Remember

Every day the Washington propaganda machines boom price control as the medicine for inflation control. For some unknown reason the same official agencies never mention tax control or waste control in government as the one indispensable requisite for inflation control.

Nor do they explain how tax confiscation of the earnings of the individuals for Washington bureaus to spend high, wide and handsome is any less inflationary than if the individual spent his own money.

After all, the government earns nothing, it just spends, and it can only spend what it first takes away from the individual who earns it. Only the people can stop the tax spenders who create inflation. They will never stop of their own accord.

Alumnus Christians

The Rev. Robert F. Hollett, pastor of a suburban church near Chicago, recently expressed some thoughts that hit close to home. He spoke critically of those he termed "Alumnus Christians", people who once attended church regularly and then after moving into the country gradually drifted away because they couldn't muster the energy to dress up on Sunday morning. Equally remiss, he warned, is the person who feels that "he has done his share of church work, and now it's someone else's turn."

To the cynical it may seem kind of pollyannish to chide someone for not going to church. But think! We are fighting a war at this moment to preserve your right and the right of your neighbors to go to the church of your choice. Freedom of religion is one of the few real "inalienable rights" which men die to defend when the chips are down.

The church as we know it in America, regardless of denomination, is a symbol of Christianity and the sanctuary of the Christian principles underlying our form of government and our economic system. These principles are dedicated to the dignity and importance of the individual. The "Alumnus Christians" to whom the Reverend Hollett addressed himself are in danger of losing sight of the great truths of human existence.

Accurate Dosage

After the physician decides what drug he wants to prescribe for a patient, he then gives careful consideration to the dose of that drug. This is of great importance because the size of the dose may vary for different patients.

As a rule, women are given smaller doses than are men. Weight is an important factor and a heavy muscular man will usually be given a larger dose than a light man. The dose may vary according to the temperament of the patient so that a tense, nervous individual may receive a different dose than a calm person.

It is obvious, therefore, that accurate dosage is a vital factor in the effectiveness of the medicine the doctor prescribes for you. You may be certain that we will do our part and fill your prescription in such a manner that each dose will contain the exact amount of medication that your doctor wants you to have. However, the patient must cooperate by carefully following the doctor's directions concerning dosage.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG - By John Fisher

Strong Western Alliance Seen As Hope Of World

The Ottawa meeting of the North Atlantic council, on the heels of the Washington conference of British, French and United States foreign ministers, made clear that Allied governments hope to build a strong France and Germany as the bulwark of Free Europe.

Such fusion of economic and military power not only will be a barrier to the Soviet army but a more perfect union will promote peace. It will create a magnet, steadily attracting satellite governments and individuals from the Soviet bloc.

A helpless, frightened West caused despair among freedom loving peoples behind the Iron Curtain; those cut off from assistance saw no sense in obstructing the seemingly inevitable Soviet conquest.

But a strong West re-kindles the dream of eventual liberation and makes rational a resistance to complete absorption and Russification.

The more such mental resistance, the less reliable are prisoners as fighting allies of Russia. If Moscow cannot count on its slave states, the Kremlin is less likely to risk full-scale war.

A powerful western magnet is so important as a deterrent to Stalin's plans for war that impulsive Americans—thousands of miles from the invasion zone—should be patient as Britain, France and the German Federal Republic slowly move closer to each other and organize for mutual protection. All have difficulties which must be resolved before Free Europe can work in harness.

ENCOURAGES ESCAPEES

Island Britain worries lest a restored German ship-building industry not only creates a maritime commercial rival but also, once Bonn is independent, grows into a giant naval-building instrument.

Thrice-invaded France fears that revived German steel, chemical and machine-tool industries might be converted by an almost sovereign West Germany into an arms industry. Adenauer's willingness to negotiate a "peace contract" and to contribute to western defense has aroused Socialist opposition.

Nevertheless, the preliminary joint-effort by Paris and Bonn in reaching for renewed economic and military strength already has had a decided effect in pulling puppets away from their Russian masters. The recent flood of escapees is an indication of how the enslaved peoples are deserting.

The sensational exodus from Poland includes flyers, seamen, sailors and naval officers. Each get-away required much planning as Warsaw recently had placed rigid restrictions on movements in frontier zones and had issued crosschecking identity cards. Despite the watchdogs, the fugitives fled.

Nineteen of the Polish delegates to the recent Berlin World Youth Festival refused to return home; fear of reprisal on relatives prevented many others from seeking liberty.

A TASTE OF HEAVEN

Some of the crew of the Batory jumped ship when the vessel stopped in England. They reported that earlier they had been forced to march in a Red mass demonstration in Gdynia, Poland, where sullen sidewalk crowds glared silently.

But as the Batory seamen passed, spectators shouted, "Long live the nylons"—a spontaneous expression of the crowd's appreciation of the "capitalist goods" the seamen had been able to bring home from New York.

Such knowledge of the abundance of good things on the free side of the Iron Curtain fortifies mental resistance to barren communist life and prompts thousands from the Baltic to the Black Sea to dare frontier guards and savage punishment in order to gain freedom. In recent months, as persecutions have increased, the wooded, mountainous Balkan borders have become a sieve.

The contact of the German Communist Youth (FDJ) with the free world in Berlin, during the summer human circus, was most revealing.

Kids, whose meagre and monotonous diet for many months had been salt herring, synthetic sausage and black bread, were given free feasts in the Allied zones. They saw shops packed with luxuries and fellow Germans wearing fine clothes.

They talked with young people who could laugh and say what they liked, without resorting to whispers or looking over their shoulders to see if an informer or a policeman was watching. They had a taste of heaven that cannot easily be erased from memory or dispelled from thought.

They had been previously warned that they would be beaten up by West Berlin police and "capitalist mobs." When they received a warm welcome instead, Red officials had to stage riots to provoke police intervention in order to prove the correctness of their earlier warnings.

COUNTER-PROPAGANDA

Actually, what communist big-wigs most feared was that, in addition to gifts and pleasant memories, the young people would be given anti-communist literature and underground instructions on sabotage.

One party newspaper announced that returning pilgrims would be searched by the security police and those bringing back subversive propaganda would be severely punished.

Lest the fledgling Reds be contaminated by their brief association with "imperialist warmongers," the East German government, before, during and after the festival, dinned into the ears of their dupes that the peace and prosperity of the West was a mirage.

Soviet counter-action against the magnet of the West is to tell isolated Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Germans and others that the free world is secretly planning to destroy them. East German youth has been commanded to read a government White Book that purports to reveal the warmongering of the "financial monster-bloc of Wall Street."

Greece, was appointed to bring in a slate of officers. It was voted to hold the next meeting Monday, Oct. 8, and at the invitation of Miss Putnam, it will be held in the library. At this time the nominating committee will report and officers will be elected.

Harold E. Heseltine, president of the Andover Service club which sponsored the new organization, opened the meeting and turned it over to Samuel M. Glazerman, chairman of the organization committee, who presided. Atty. Anna M. Greeley was acting secretary.

T. Augustine Farragher, chairman of the Christmas lighting committee, reported that the bare cost of the lighting decorations would be about $2000 but that this did not cover the cost of electricity and other items, so that approximately $2500 would be needed this coming season.

It has been suggested that business on Main street be assessed $1.50 per foot frontage for the cost and that the lights be turned on the night before Thanksgiving day. The lighting committee now made up of five members with Gene Bernardin treasurer, will soon be enlarged.

At the conclusion of the business session the following signed up for membership:

Doherty Insurance Agency; Andover Home Service Inc., Mary Bates, Curley Top Beauty shop; W. R. Hill; Dr. John A. Rodolico, optometrist; Ernest J. Brooks, The Curio shop; Andover Savings bank; Flander & Swanton Inc., Tom T. Johnson, Builder; Dr. Charles H. Black, dentist; Dr. John C. Brown, Defense is your job, too!

Swabbing down their cruiser's forecandle deck or passing ammunition to her eight-inch guns, it's all in the day's duty for these young American seamen. Day or night, fair weather or foul, they're on the job, keeping the United States Navy our First Line of Defense — for America and for you.

But in these critical times, defense is your job, too. And one of the most important parts of that job is maintaining the economic strength of America, as the sailors are working to maintain her naval strength. How can you do that? By buying U. S. Defense* Bonds—buying them now and buying them regularly. So go to your pay office and join the Payroll Savings Plan or sign up at your bank for the Bond-A-Month Plan. But do it today!

The U. S. Defense Bonds you buy give you personal financial independence

Remember that when you're buying Defense Bonds you're building a personal reserve of cash savings. Money that will some day buy you a house or educate your children, or support you when you retire. Remember, too, that if you don't save regularly, you generally don't save at all. So go to your company's pay office—now—and sign up to buy Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Don't forget that bonds are now a better buy than ever. Because now every Series E Bond you own automatically goes on earning interest every year for 20 years from date of purchase instead of 10 as before! This means that the bond you bought for $18.75 can return you not just $25—but as much as $33.33! A $37.50 bond pays $66.66. And so on. For your security, and your country's, too, buy U. S. Defense Bonds now!

U. S. Savings Bonds are Defense Bonds
Buy them regularly!

Lightweight Boat Called Unsinkable

A folding boat said to be unsinkable is the latest item to go on the market for sportsmen.

A two-seater model, the boat weighs only 56 pounds complete with sails, paddles, and leeboards. The fabric for the boat is constructed from a combination of canvas and rubber, and its collapsible frame is made of seasoned mountain ash.

Popular Mechanics magazine reports that the folding boat is unsinkable even if it is completely filled with water because of two air-filled tubes wrapped around the hull at the gunwales.

The boat comes apart to form two compact bundles that can be carried by one person and which will fit into a car trunk. It is said that the portable boat can be assembled in less than 15 minutes.

Chelmsford Buries Punchard 33-19

Punchard dropped a 32-19 decision to Chelmsford on the latter's field Saturday chiefly through the local's inability to solve single and double reverses.

There was plenty of scoring in the game and early in the second quarter the Blue and Gold was leading 13 to 7 but this score was tied before the end of the half.

In the last half Chelmsford put on a drive from its own 18 yard line to make a touchdown and take the lead. Punchard could do little until the closing minutes of play when another touchdown put new hopes into its followers only to have the home team score again and clinch the game.

In the battle of statistics Punchard fared well, making 16 first downs to the opponents 9, and gaining 211 yards by rushing to 225 by Chelmsford. Punchard completed 3 out of 9 forwards, Chelmsford completed 1 out of 3.

The Summary:

Chelmsford: le, Haberman; lt, Wainwright; lg, House; c, La-Courre; rg, Chevalier; rt, Dermoo; re, Clemonds; qb, Crowe; lhb, Berger; rhb, Yates; fb, Hunt.

Punchard: le, Gemmell; lt, Ross; lg, Stewart; c, Bramley; rg, Lavigne; rt, Brown; re, Lynch; qb, Dolan; lhb, Hathaway; rhb, Barous; fb, Wilson.

Chelmsford substitutes: Beckham and McGlouchey.

Punchard substitutes: Douglas, Sullivan Frederickson, Mirisola, McKay and Pidgeon.

Touchdowns made by Berger (3), Yates (2), Wilson, Dolan and Hathaway. Points after touchdown made by Berger (3), Barous.

Score by periods:

Chelmsford	7	6	14	6-33
Punchard	6	7	0	6-19

Officials: referee, Drescher; umpire, Skaff; head linesman, Wolfendale. Time of periods, four 10's.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Anticipating the Ottawa meeting, the book declares, "The Bonn remilitarization government is pursuing a policy to render the Western German population ripe for war...Prussian militarism will be reborn. This institution, besmirched with blood and crimes against humanity, will be unleashed by the Anglo-American imperialists."

"By reestablishing the honor of the German soldier, General Eisenhower gave complete 'American absolutism' to all war criminals, to the murderers of hostages and millions of civilians, and even to the gas chamber specialists. Eisenhower wants them to repeat what they did yesterday, tomorrow in the war prepared by the Americans."

Stalin cannot keep his slaves in line if they see salvation in a strong, prosperous, peace-loving West. Hence he is using every falsehood in the catalogue of lies to bind them to him.

NEW Sunbeam IRONMASTER STEAM OR DRY

No measuring, filling

No slopping or spilling

PLUG-IN for STEAM just as you do for current

SEE YOUR SUNBEAM DEALER: Let him demonstrate for you this amazing new Sunbeam iron for both steam and dry ironing that's the same size and weight as a regular lightweight dry iron, 2 3/4 pounds.

Think of it! Now, when you want to steam iron, you simply plug-in the water supply just as you do the electric current. You can switch from steam to dry ironing, and back again, as often as you wish. There is no filling or spilling. The water for steam is supplied from your bottle of distilled water, outside the iron. You get steam any time you want it, because the water is fed directly to the soleplate where it is instantly converted to steam. You never have to fill or empty this iron. It can't go dry in the midst of steam ironing. It gives you MORE steam and DEEP-STEAM penetration—steam gets down into thickest fabrics instantly, ironing out deep creases from woollens and rayons with tailor-like perfection. You get a constant EVEN steam-flow, without spurting, puffing or dripping.

Only after you have seen this amazing new Sunbeam Combination Ironmaster DEMONSTRATED can you truly appreciate what a blessing it can be for you.

Information
For Veterans

Q—My eyes have been bothering me since I left military service. May I get eyeglasses from the VA?

A—VA will furnish eyeglasses only under three conditions: if VA judges they are necessary for a service-connected disability; if they are needed as part of hospital or domiciliary care, or if they are needed for proper continuance of Public Law 16 training.

Q—I have completed four years of college under the GI bill, during which time I received quite a large number of textbooks at Government expense. May I keep the textbooks, or must I now return them to VA?

A—The textbooks are yours, and need not be returned to VA.

Q—I was commissioned in the Army in 1935, and hope to retire in 1965, after 30 years' service. Will I be eligible for GI bill benefits, since I was in service during the World War II period?

A—No. Under present laws, all GI bill benefits will have expired before your release from active service. The deadline for unemployment and self-employment allowance is July 25, 1952; for education and training, July 25, 1956, and for GI loans, July 25, 1957. Veterans who enlisted or reenlisted under the Voluntary Recruitment Act (between Oct. 6, 1945 and Oct. 5, 1946) are exempt from the deadlines, but the exemptions would not apply in your case.

Q—Where do I apply for institutional on-farm training under the GI bill?

A—Apply directly to the school in your locality approved to offer the training. The school then will transmit your application to VA for approval of the agency.

Q—I am a World War I veteran, and I had a U. S. government life insurance permanent policy which lapsed but which extended automatically as term insurance. The term extension has expired and now I have no coverage at all. May I apply for new U. S. government life insurance?

A—Yes, so long as you meet the health requirements for insurabil-

Q—I was discharged from the navy in 1946, and was recalled to active duty in the naval reserve for six weeks in February and March, 1947. May I count those six weeks in computing my entitlement for GI Bill education?

Red Cross Blood U To Be H Next W

Red Cross volunteers will work this week, focusing energies on the big task of raising an adequate number of donors to ensure the bloodmobile visit next Tuesday, and Wednesday. Those who are acceptable as donors are being urged to donate in blood may be in the hospital when it is needed by a man on the battlefield, or of illness or accident in your family.

Registrations are requested by the committee as being encouraging, but still far short of the total. Those who have been reached by the red teams or any who felt it necessary to refuse at the time may still register this week by calling Andover 1496.
